Collection History:

The Women's Union was active during the 1970s and 1980s as a student organization focused on second-wave and organizing at the University of Chicago. Interested faculty and students organized teaching and research on women's and gender studies into the Center for the Study of Gender and Sexuality in 1996.

Custodial History:

[Materials seems to have been collected by different people associated with the Women's Union or the Women's & Gender Studies Department at the University of Chicago.]

Scope and Content:

Materials include newsletters, publications, subject files, and press clippings on feminism, women's issues, and academic women's studies.

Arrangement:

Material is arranged by topic or by specific publication title when possible.
